

WANTS AIRPLANE BOMBING STOPPED

LEMANS, France, Dec. 22.—Speaking here at the Wright-Lafayette ceremonies, when the foundation stone of the Wilbur Wright monument was laid, William G. Sharp, the American ambassador to France, deplored the "wicked uses to which aviation has been perverted by the enemy."

The ambassador continued: "The very horrors of its abuses will compel the civilized nations hereafter to abandon forever the employment of aircraft for the casting of bombs."

Henry Simon, French minister of the colonies, representing the government, in an address traced the effort made by the United States in the war. "Without such aid supplied to our allies and at the same time as to ourselves," he continued, "I do not know whether the war in the spring of 1917 could have been continued. Without the formidable push of last March and the monthly contribution of American troops, I do not know whether Marshal Foch's decisive maneuver in the summer of 1918 could have been possible."

The monument is being erected by the Aero Club of France, and will mark the place where Wilbur Wright made his first flight in France on August 8, 1908.

BRITISH ADMIRALTY LAUDS U. S. NAVY

Work done in the war by the American battle squadron under Vice Admiral Rodman and the mine force under Rear Admiral Strauss is commended by the British board of admiralty in a letter to Admiral Sims, made public by Secretary Daniels. Rear Admiral Rodman and Rear Admiral Strauss are especially mentioned.

"On the occasion of the departure of the squadron of the United States battleships, which has for a year and a half served in British waters as the Sixth battle squadron of the grand fleet, and has shared in all the fleet's activities," says the letter, in part "the board of admiralty desires to express to Admiral Sims, U. S. N., as commander of the United States naval forces operating in European waters their sense of pride that so magnificent a force should have been associated with the grand fleet under the orders of the British commander-in-chief, and their intense satisfaction that this association has proved so intimate and harmonious."

GEORGE B. FOSTER DEAD IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—George Burman Foster, University of Chicago professor and for nearly two decades the center of many controversies in Baptist theological circles, is dead here.

In writings and in many public addresses the noted dissenter, while holding a professorship in the Baptist divinity school at the University of Chicago, gave expression to such sentiments as these:

"It was not God who made man; man made God."

"The Christian religion is not of Divine origin. It was created by the primitive man."

"Freedom first, virtue second."

"Religion is only a relaxation from moral overstrain."

"Modernity has proclaimed the church a dead issue."

Prof. Foster was expelled from the Chicago Baptist Ministers' Association in July, 1909, after he had told the clergymen at a meeting his views on the divinity of Christ. He then was transferred from the divinity school of the university to the sociology department.

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 22.—Funeral services for Walter Hines Page, former ambassador to Great Britain, who died here Saturday night, will be held at the Page Memorial Church at Aberdeen, N. C., tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Page's death came as a shock to his friends, though his health had been failing for some time. He had been seriously ill for nearly a year and was forced to give up his post as American ambassador to the court of St. James last summer.

Selfless Relapses.
Though apparently showing improvement, Mr. Page suffered a relapse in November. He rallied about two weeks ago and was taken to Pinehurst. He suffered a second relapse last Thursday.

Many members of Mr. Page's immediate family were with him when he died. Included were Mrs. Page and her daughter, Mrs. Charles G. Loring, of Boston; Ralph W. Page, his son, and Henry A. Junius R. and Robert N. Page, brothers of Mr. Page.

Made Ambassador.
When President Wilson appointed him ambassador, in March, 1913, Mr. Page was editor of the magazine, The World's Work, and a member of the publishing firm of Doubleday, Page & Co., of Garden City, Long Island. His selection was considered in some British circles as a compliment to the good sense of the British people who, it was stated, preferred a man of personality and achievement as American ambassador rather than a man of wealth capable of giving lavish and expensive entertainments.

Literary Work.
Mr. Page had devoted nearly all his life prior to his appointment as ambassador to literary work. He was the author of works on the development of the Southern United States in which he was particularly interested as a native of Cary, N. C., where he was born August 15, 1855.

In his work on the "Upbuilding of Old Commonwealth," Mr. Page disclosed his interest in the culture of a broad national feeling in the South.

Friends of Mr. Page in his boyhood remember him as having displayed signs of exceptional ability as a speaker and writer. In early life he edited the State Chronicle at Raleigh, N. C., and was one of those who launched the movement which led to the founding of the State Agricultural and Mechanical College of North Carolina.

He was the son of Allison F. Page, a wealthy lumber man.

U-BOAT BONUSES FOR SEAMEN DISCONTINUED

Bonuses allowed seamen for entering the once submarine-infested waters of Europe were discontinued yesterday, the Shipping Board announced. Licensed deck and engineer officers, however, will receive the extra pay until January 1, unless in the meantime the wage adjustment committee of the board shall establish new wages for them.

All-sea-herebefore made to all members of ships' companies except licensed officers to cover loss of effects as the result of submarine activities will be discontinued in the case of all men signing ships' articles.

SHUT UP IN FOLDING BED; SHE SUES FOR DIVORCE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 22.—"He put me in a folding bed, shut it up, and stood me on my head; and I almost smothered, and if he hadn't let me out I would have died," testified Mrs. Ida Hillgartner in the suit of her husband, Henry, for divorce, heard Thursday in Judge Turner's branch of the Circuit Court.

Decision was reserved.

CANNOT DECLARE PRESIDENCY VACANT

The office of President is not vacant, and Congress is not authorized under any contingency to declare it vacant, in the opinion of Leslie M. Shaw, former Secretary of the Treasury, given in a statement to the press.

"The oft-quoted and only provision applicable reads as follows," he said: "In case of the removal of the President from office or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and of said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice President."

"The same section," he further says, "authorizes Congress to declare what officer shall 'act as President' in the event of the death or disability of both the President and the Vice President, and adds, 'such officer shall act accordingly until the disability be removed or a President shall be elected.' Congress can neither declare nor fill a vacancy."

SOUTH AMERICAN NATIONS WANT SOME OF FOE FLEET

South America would like to get some or all of the surrendered German fleet, according to reports here today. Some of the countries are said to be anxious to increase their naval strength and to have a share in the proposed international fleet larger than they would with their present sea power.

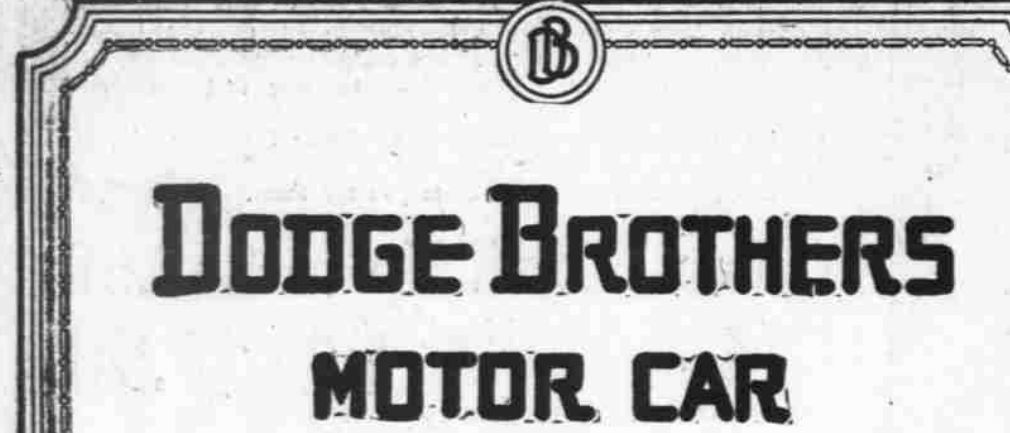

ADVERTISEMENTS

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND GRIPPE

Ask any physician or druggist and he will tell you that the best and most effective remedy for a bad cold, sore throat or influenza, is what he calls "a brisk calomel purge," which means a big dose of calomel at bed time. But as the old style calomel has some very unpleasant and dangerous qualities, physicians and druggists are now recommending the improved nausealess calomel called "Calotabs" which is free from the sickening and dangerous effects and whose medical virtues are easily improved.

One Calotab on the tongue at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your diet, pleasures or work. Next morning your cold has vanished and your entire system feels purified and refreshed.

Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Your druggist guarantees Calotabs by refunding the price if you are not delighted.
